

Noreen Clough Memorial Scholarship for Females in Fisheries

As the first female Regional Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and later as the two-time Conservation Director of B.A.S.S., Noreen Clough blazed many trails in the field of fisheries. Her long and distinguished career was dedicated to the conservation and management of fish and wildlife. Along the way, she served as a mentor to many and a revered colleague to countless others.

As a tribute to Noreen's impact on our careers and lives and for the good of the resources she helped conserve, a group of her friends and colleagues are establishing a scholarship in her memory. This scholarship will go to a female student working toward a career in fisheries conservation and/or management. In the coming months, we will develop an application process and plan to award this scholarship at the annual meeting of the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society. The Division's Black Bass Conservation Committee will be administering the scholarship and is currently accepting tax-deductible donations in an effort to build an endowment.
